

HIDDEN LONG TERM SYSTEMIC CONSTRAINTS IN PRESENT DAY SOCIO-ECONOMICAL GLOBAL MUTATION OF MANKIND

Charles FRANÇOIS
April 7th, 2000

Some undervaluated dynamic forces and structural situations

- The world-wide demographic explosion, except in Western Europe and some other few countries (Japan, f. ex.)
- The ageing of population in the developed countries and resulting growing demographic disequilibrium
- The refusal of menial tasks by most people in developed countries, even by the ill-educated in some cases
- The worldly unequal distribution of wealth between continents: poverty combined with demographic explosion
 - o The triggering of massive new “Völkerwanderungen” world wide as a result of these four dynamic processes
- The limits to planetary resources: in the long-term possible regional or global ecological crashes
- The growingly massive economic and social exclusion of the less educated people ... and sometimes also of the educated
- The demise of traditional values systems (due to the advance of rational knowledge and the massive cross-cultural contacts).
- The resulting reciprocal erosion of traditional cultures (archaic tribal cultures; impinging of some cultures into the traditional domain of another and resulting clashes)
- The resulting danger of collective anomy, nihilism and mass murder or suicide (Items: Cambodia, Sierra Leone, Ruanda, Kosovo, possibly Colmonbia; mass suicide or murder in fanatical religious sects: the recent Uganda case)

Dangerous people whose activities should be monitored

- The money-makers at any cost: drugs and arms merchants; slave labor purveyors; radical cost cutters of all kinds
- The messianic ideologists (Hitler or Pol Pot-types)
- The religious fanatics, who preach saintly war against the “infidels”; the self-styled “magicians” or soothsayers
- The purveyors of mind-shrinking pseudo-information: supposedly inexplicable paranormal phenomena; pseudo-sciences as for ex. astrology; miracle-peddlers and snake-oil vendors of all denominations, etc ...(their influence multiplied by modern media)
The people who believes them become easily prey of quasi-hypnotic illusions, potentially damaging for themselves and others

The general problem is of course avoiding any witch hunt or crusade against “policially uncorrect” people.